

Committee work beyond the precincts of Parliament

The work of the Committees of the Thai House of Representatives, in particular the thirty-five Standing Committees is not only the meeting in the parliamentary precincts but also the activities outside the Parliament in order to get the information, facts and other details to be considered by the Committees themselves and included in the report of the House.

Beyond the precincts of the Parliament, the Committees shall investigate, study any matter concerned and organise seminar. Besides, Members of the Committees travel within the country and abroad to have the study visit.

For the study visit abroad, the Committees staff will arrange a scheme and a plan for the study visit in order to submit to the Committee on the House of Representatives Affairs. In this case, the budget estimate of the study visit will also be prepared together with the memorandum proposing budget and namelist of the delegation for the consideration of the Scrutinizing Committee. After the Scrutinizing Committee approves, the matter shall be proceeded to the Speaker of the House of Representatives for the final approval.

The Committees staff who are officials of the Secretariat of the House of Representatives are responsible for the secretarial services within the Parliament, the country and outside the country.
